Welcome

Ciarraí – bain sult as!

Kerry is the perfect destination to enjoy activities and adventure - on land, in the water and even in the sky! Kerry's stunning and varied landscape of hills, mountains, forests, lakes, rivers and dramatic coastline, offer a natural playground for young and old. Our position on the very edge of Europe, surrounded to the north and west by the Atlantic Ocean, offers hundreds of kilometres of breathtaking beaches and boasts the longest section of the Wild Atlantic Way. Kerry is the ideal getaway for the first-timer who wants to dip a toe, literally, into a world of adventure or for the seasoned thrill-seeker, looking for the ultimate adrenaline rush. We have the landscape, the people and a host of activities that make for an unforgettable and exceptional adventure experience.

Stunning scenery and diverse local attractions compete for your attention as you explore Kerry. Enjoy a leisurely stroll along Ballybunion's dramatic sea cliffs or in Killarney National Park where you might encounter its famous Red Deer and admire some of the Country's oldest oak forests. Or immerse yourself in Kerry's history and archaeology by taking a boat trip to Skellig Michael, a UNESCO World Heritage site, to see the remarkably well preserved Early Christian monastic settlement. Or stroll around the remote and wildly beautiful Great Blasket Island and marvel at its natural beauty and rich literary heritage.

Enjoy the thrill of paragliding, zip-wiring, abseiling, falconry, archery, angling and fishing.....Kerry has something for everyone! Indulging in your passion for adventure is easy here in Kerry and limited only by your imagination.

Travelling to Kerry

Travelling to Kerry has never been easier or more affordable both from international destinations and from within Ireland, with good road and rail connections.

BY AIR: Kerry Airport is located just outside Farranfore village and mid-way between Tralee and Killarney (17km from Killarney and 19km from Tralee). Daily flights to Dublin and London and several weekly and seasonal flights to Europe are available.

Kerry Airport now offers seamless connections to the USA and Canada. Current services include check-in at Kerry Airport for New York, Chicago, Boston, Orlando, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Hartford Connecticut, Newark or Toronto with Aer Lingus, with onward boarding pass from Dublin. Your luggage will automatically be transferred, allowing you time to complete immigration checks at Dublin Airport saving time and effort. To plan and book a flight to Kerry, please visit www.kerryairport.ie

BY BUS: Bus Éireann and a range of private bus operators offer direct services to Kerry and provides year round connectivity within the county. Visit www.buseireann.ie and www.localinkkerry.ie to plan your route and check timetables.

BY RAIL: Railway stations are located in Killarney, Tralee, Farranfore and Rathmore. For timetables and route maps, please visit www.irishrail.ie

BY CAR:

From Dublin –

via the M7 and N21 (approx. travel time 3.5 hours)

From Galway & Limerick –

via the N21 or on the N69 Coast Road

From Cork – via the N22

From Rosslare Harbour – via N25 and N22

BY FERRY:

Travel to Kerry by ferry service from Killimer, Co. Clare to Tarbert, Co. Kerry. If you're lucky, you might even catch a glimpse of the dolphins in the estuary.

Visit www.shannonferries.com for sailing schedule and timetable. From Tarbert, travel along the N69 Road to Listowel and onto other towns and villages in the county such as Tralee, Killarney, Dingle, Kenmare, Caherciveen and Killorglin or take the Wild Atlantic Way to the seaside resorts of Ballybunion and Ballyheigue.

County Kerry is located in the South-West of Ireland. If you are travelling to Kerry by air from overseas, it's best to fly directly into Kerry, Shannon or Cork Airports.

Arts & Crafts

Kerry has a wealth of talented jewellery and craft makers, designers, sculptors and artists, who take inspiration from our amazing landscape.

Experience first-hand the art of producing beautifully crafted products including ceramic art, leather goods, wood carvings, jewellery and knitwear on the Kerry Craft Trail where you will see exceptional creativity and craft work – check out www.originalkerry.com for a trail map and further details.

Kerry's arts sector is rich and diverse and there are lots of galleries located all around the county, where you can admire and purchase local art.

Kerry County Council's Arts Office acts as a catalyst in the promotion of the arts in Kerry, including the promotion of access, participation and profile of the arts and linking with dynamic partners.

For more information please see,

Stories & Music

With over 10,000 archaeological and heritage sites, Kerry's rich and bountiful legacy of Islands, Castles, Forts, Beehive Huts, Round Towers, Standing Stones and Churches continue to amaze and enthral our visitors.

Kerry is steeped in culture, from ancient stories of the Fianna hunting in Killarney and Oisín riding along the magical wave between Inch and Rossbeigh beaches, or the Kings of the Ciarraidhe in North Kerry who gave the county its name. The county is alive with the stories, songs and traditions of times past, celebrated in places such as Siamsa Tíre – the National Folk Theatre in Tralee, Tinteán Ceoil in Cloghane/Brandon, Sliabh Luachra, or Molly Gallivans in Bonane, to mention just a few. Irish is still the everyday spoken language of people in the Gaeltacht areas of Corca Dhuibhne (Dingle Peninsula) and Uíbh Ráthach (Iveragh Peninsula).

The rich legacy of our writers is celebrated in Ionad an Bhlascaod/the Blasket Centre in Dún Chaoin and The Seanchaí Kerry Writers Museum in Listowel. Throughout the year local drama groups throughout the county present plays of local, national and international acclaim. Live traditional Irish music is to be found in pubs in our towns and villages, especially during the summer months. A full calendar of local events and festivals that take place around the county can be found at <https://tockify.com/kerryournaturalescape/>

Family Fun

Rain or shine, Kerry promises a fun-filled time for all the family. We have plenty of all-weather options for young and old. A number of leisure centres and hotels offer swimming facilities, gyms and fitness classes. On rainy days, cinemas and indoor play areas can keep the little ones entertained, while the grown-ups can rejuvenate with a spa treatment or indulge their culinary passion with a food experience or release their inner artist during an art class. Why not enjoy a family holiday with a difference and brush up on your 'cúpla focal' while participating in fun activities through Irish on an Irish Language Holiday.

During school holiday periods, Kerry hosts several camps, most of which can be booked for individual days or a full week/s. Sport-based camps such as basketball, soccer and the GAA Cúl Camps, provide boys and girls with action-packed and fun-filled activities while improving physical well-being and enhancing friendships.

Arts & Crafts themed camps as well as nature and eco-camps are also on offer. Your local tourist office can advise you of camps in your area or check out the following links for more information:

Festivals

Kerry enjoys a year-round programme of festivals, many organised by local communities and supported by state agencies. Festivals vary from food fairs, walking and cycling festivals, to more established international events such as the Rose of Tralee, Puck Fair in Killorglin, Listowel Writers Week, Féile na Bealtaine in Dingle and Christmas in Killarney.

Experience our culture and place, meet, chat and maybe even join in a sing-song with the locals! Use our 'What's On' Events calendar to find a festival or event near you:

Parks & Gardens

County Kerry has a range of spectacular public parks and gardens open all year round. The Gulf Stream with its warm south-westerly winds provides a micro-climate for a range of tropical plants and trees to prosper, especially in South Kerry. Killarney is Ireland's oldest National Park while Tralee Rose Garden is the largest of its kind in Ireland.

Taste Kerry

The quality and variety of Irish food along with its value for money, is always a great surprise to our visitors.

Ireland can compare with the very best food destinations internationally. Kerry's coastal location and our long tradition of farming, food production and our green environment, means that fresh, locally grown food of the highest quality is widely available throughout the year. Hotels, bars, cafés and restaurants have menus to match everyone's taste and budget.

All the main towns in Kerry host weekly Farmers' Markets and there are several Cookery Schools that offer a range of courses from bread-making to local and international cuisine. Some like the Dingle Cookery School offer a 'Catch and Cook' experience where participants fish with the locals and cook and eat their catch of the day.

Our artisan producers and wealth of culinary talent ensures a wonderful food experience. The county plays host to several food festivals at various times of the year including the world-renowned Dingle Food Festival, Flavour of Killorglin, the Listowel and Tralee Food Fairs, Killarney Beer Festival, Valentia Island Scallop Festival, Ballylongford Oyster Festival and Féile na Práta in Ballyferrier.

Food festivals and fairs afford an opportunity for visitors and locals to enjoy the best of Kerry's food and drink in a relaxed, convivial and family-friendly atmosphere.

Check out www.tastekerry.ie and <https://tockify.com/kerryournaturalescape/> to begin your culinary journey through Kerry.

Walks & Trails

Walking and cycling are a great way to appreciate Kerry's beautiful scenery -
It's your natural escape!

Discover Kerry's jagged coastline, rolling countryside, quiet forests, serene lakes and remote mountain valleys.

Climb two of Ireland's highest mountains, Carrauntoohil and Mount Brandon and the views at the summit will take your breath away.

County Kerry has a wide range of walks and waymarked trails for all levels of walking enthusiast, from those who prefer to stroll through a park or along a river or beach, to those seeking a challenge a little less ordinary.

You can walk or cycle in any of Coillte's designated forests located throughout the county such as Ballygamboon, Caragh Lake, Glenageenty, Glanteenassig, Killaclohane, Kimego, Lickeen, Lyracrumpane and Rossacroo Wood – see www.coilte.ie.

Most of our towns and villages have walking trails nearby. Several companies in Kerry offer guided walking tours and there is a plentiful supply of guide books and maps, some available online, to enhance your walking experience. Check out the National Trails Office website www.irishtrails.ie for detailed information on walking routes throughout the county.

Let's Get Kerry Walking is an initiative set up to promote and encourage walking in Kerry. It is a joint initiative between Kerry Recreation & Sports Partnership and a range of agencies wishing to encourage, promote and support participation in sport and physical activity.

Walking in Kerry

The Kerry Way, The North Kerry Way, The Dingle Way and The Beara Way are some of Ireland's longest signposted walking trails that traverse through a variety of different landscapes, seascapes and experiences, giving the walker a greater appreciation of the awe-inspiring scenery Kerry has to offer.

Here is a brief overview of each route, but before you plan your walk, please refer to www.irishtrails.ie and <https://www.waymarkedtrails.com/> for detailed information.

Beara Way

The Beara Peninsula is shared by Kerry and Cork and remains one of the most unspoilt parts of the South West region. Mountains, lakes, sea and evidence of a rich prehistoric past meet the walker at every turn throughout this circular route.

Small rural villages such as Allihies and Eyeries offer respite along the route which consists of quiet tarmac and bog roads, cliff and woodland paths and open moorland. A loop on the route circumnavigates Bere Island and walkers can experience the thrill of journeying to Dursey Island via Ireland's only operational cable car.

Kerry Way

The Kerry Way, at 214km, is the longest of the Irish Waymarked Trails. It is a circular route that circumnavigates the Iveragh peninsula, starting and finishing in Killarney and passing through towns such as Glenbeigh, Caherciveen, Waterville, Sneem and Kenmare.

The route passes through varied landscapes, from the serene lakes of Killarney to the majestic MacGilllicuddy Reeks that contain two of Ireland’s highest summits, Carrauntoohil at 1038m and Caher at 1001m.

The return leg of the route passes along contrasting semi-tropical palm-treed terrain. The Kerry Way consists mainly of quiet tarmac roads, open moorland, woodland, field paths and boreens. Some sections of the open moorland can be very isolated, and off-road sections can often be very wet and muddy.

Aggregate ascent over the whole route is about 5400m and there are some sustained and quite steep climbs. The highest point on the Way is 385m above sea-level at Windy Gap between Glenmore and Caherdaniel.

There are some long stretches between overnight accommodation possibilities, so walkers should plan their days carefully to take these into consideration. There are good public transport options available.

Dingle Way

The Dingle Peninsula is a dramatic landscape of sandy beaches, coastal plains, mountains and lakes steeped in heritage and history.

The Dingle Way is a circular route which starts and ends in Tralee town. Leaving Tralee the route climbs onto the flanks of the Slieve Mish mountains and contours westwards before crossing the peninsula to the scenic Inch beach on Dingle Bay.

The route then meanders westwards by the villages of Annascaul and Lispole to Dingle, where many walkers will want to stay a while and enjoy the good food, music and local hospitality. West of Dingle is the most dramatic part of the Way - an exciting coastal trek around the westernmost point of Ireland and a return leg over a saddle below Kerry's holy mountain, Brandon, and back to the starting point in Tralee, by the shore.

Terrain consists mainly of quiet tarmac roads, mountain, field and cliff paths and over 20km of good beach walking. The aggregate ascent over the route is 2480m, and although there are some short steep ascents, there are no significant steep climbs. Overnight accommodation is plentiful. The route is steeped in history and scattered with the ruins of ancient dwellings, forts, churches, and castles, and because of its circular layout, can be easily sampled in sections.

Trail Overview: Dingle Way

Grade:	Strenuous	Format:	Circular

The Kerry Camino starts in St. John's Church, Tralee and follows 'The Way' to Dingle. Visitors may have their Camino Passports stamped at "Stations" along the route.

Dingle Way Map

North Kerry Way

The North Kerry Way is a 48 kilometre linear walking route through the northern part of Kerry, starting in the town of Tralee and ending in the town of Ballyheigue. North Kerry has much to offer its visitor including spectacular seascapes, the finest beaches in Ireland and a multitude of ancient sites, churches and field monuments.

The route heads out of Tralee with the Dingle Way to Blennerville with its fine traditional windmill: there the routes part and the North Kerry Way heads north west along a sea wall at the back of Tralee Bay.

From the village of Spa it goes cross-country onto the white sands of Banna Strand to reach the village of Ballyheigue and the beginning of a scenic mountainous area on Kerry Head, which it loops around before finishing back in Ballyheigue.

The terrain consists of mainly quiet country roads, firm beach sand (except at high tide), tracks, bog roads and field paths. The route is flat except for the last 18 kilometres where there are some short ascents, with an aggregate climb of 370 metres. There are some short loop walks which link with the main route of the North Kerry Way.

Dark Skies & Movie Stars

The Kerry International Dark Sky Reserve has been designated Ireland's first International Dark Sky Reserve and is one of only three gold tier reserves on the planet and the only gold tier reserve in the Northern Hemisphere. It is also the only 'living' reserve where locals live and work under a blanket of stars! The reserve includes the following areas in South Kerry: Kells, Caherciveen, Portmagee, Bray Head, Valentia Island, The Glen-St. Finian's Bay, Ballinskelligs, Waterville, Caherdaniel and Dromid.

Visit this region of Kerry for spectacular views of the Milky Way, the Andromeda Galaxy, Star Clusters and Nebula and much more...enjoy the dark skies of Kerry!

Kerry's majestic landscape, warm welcome and long tourism tradition has enticed and inspired film makers worldwide. 'Ryan's Daughter' and 'Far and Away' were both filmed near Dingle, 'The Playboy of the Western World' features scenes of idyllic Inch Beach and recent episodes of the Star Wars movies were filmed on Skellig Michael and in Ballyferriter – showcasing Kerry's stunning scenery across the world. Visit the fishing village of Portmagee and the Gaeltacht village of Ballyferriter as well as the spectacular Valentia Island to see where all the action and filming took place.

Kerry Beaches

Boasting the longest section of coastline on the Wild Atlantic Way, Kerry has hundreds of miles of long sandy beaches just waiting to be explored. Whatever you want from a beach – a long walk, a quiet picnic, family fun, water sports or some solitude – Kerry has a beach for you all with an exceptionally high standard of water quality suitable for bathing.

County Kerry is proud to have been awarded 14 blue flags for its beaches and a marina - the highest number in Ireland. They are located at Inch, Ballybunion, Ballyheigue, Banna, Fenit, Kells, Magharabeg Castlegregory, Ventry, Rossbeigh, White Strand in Caherciveen, Ballinskelligs and Derrynane and Fenit Marina. The Blue Flag accreditation is a European award for beaches that reach the highest standards in terms of water quality, cleanliness, facilities, safety and management.

Kerry has four Green Coast Award Beaches - Béal Bán in Ballyferriter, Littor Beach near Asdee in North Kerry, Castlegregory Beach on the Dingle Peninsula and Ballinskelligs Beach in South Kerry. The Green Coast Accreditation promotes high environmental standards and are exceptional places to visit for their unspoiled natural beauty. These beaches have a strong emphasis on community involvement and environmental activities.

Feel the wildness, take a spectacular photograph or walk for miles.

Eco Tourism

Kerry's biodiversity is internationally recognised and it is the last refuge in Europe for several plant and animal species. Throughout the county, a diverse range of habitats and species of flora and fauna can be found. Kerry's incredible diversity of wildlife has resulted in almost half of the county being designated a Natura 2000 network – a network of natural heritage sites protected across Europe.

The county is home to Ireland's oldest national park - the 26,000 acre Killarney National Park. This expanse of rugged mountains, lakes, waterfalls, lush oak, yew and evergreen woodlands has created a rich ecological diversity and extensive habitat offering a range of species - some of which are quite rare and include the only herd of native red deer.

Skellig Michael off South Kerry, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, as well as the Blasket Islands off the Dingle Peninsula are teeming with birdlife including gannets, puffins and terns.

The wild Atlantic Ocean offers a wealth of marine life and a walk along any of our hundreds of kilometres of shoreline is an opportunity to glimpse the many birds, seals, invertebrates, seaweed, dolphins, porpoises and even whales that have made our coastline their home.

Several tour operators offer whale and dolphin watching experiences, both on shore and by boat, and most guided tours in Kerry will include information on the local flora and fauna.

Kerry's clean and green unspoilt environment and its spectacular scenery is the key to our tourism industry.

Kerry works hard to sustain the quality of these resources, so our communities and our visitors can continue to enjoy all it has to offer.
